TESTIMONIALS

“Chelsea represents her generation in easy to understand and practical ways. She also enables listeners on how to relate to her generation and grab their attention in multi-faceted ways whether it be in marketing products/brands to millennials or simply conveying a message to them. Personally for me she has reminded me many things I've learned in college about how to get the professional attention that a person is seeking.”

- Danilo Gateau Sales & Marketing Strategist

“Chelsea was a delight of a guest. She not only provided useful and insightful information for our audience of business decision makers desperate to understand the millennial mindset, but she also delivered it well for a TV audience. The feedback we got following her segment was a testimony to how much our viewers learned from her.”

- JJ" Ramberg, host of MSNBC's business program Your Business

“I had the opportunity to work with Chelsea on a couple different occasions as an inspirational and informative speaker on life in the millennial world. Chelsea is truly a consummate professional and delivers a compelling story about life in the world from a different point of view, a different age and completely different mindset. She teaches her audience about the differences we face in our ages and in our approaches to problem solving. I know in both instances the a-ha moments were many and the audience was unaware of how to truly connect with this generation.

She does her homework! Planning calls and research on the companies I represent were all part of her scope before taking to the stage. When she was talking to the audience she acted as if she was speaking to them with the knowledge of what they “represent” and the struggles they face when going to market. I just loved that about her. It made my client very happy to know she was making it personal to their brand and not about her. She truly recognizes the value she brings sharing the knowledge of this generation to others.

Not to mention she is just so fun to work with and has a smile on her face every step of the way!”

- Michelle Johnson, Owner, The Anchor Group, llc

“Chelsea Krost hit the nail squarely on the head with the marketing analysis and recommendations she made to Burger 21 International.....accurate, cogent, and forward thinking. She (or your firm) provided mission clarity and a specific plan to achieve the marketing objectives. I would describe Chelsea as highly effective. Without question, she is an American superstar and will reach iconic status in her career.”

- Ken DePasquale, Business Consultant & Restaurateur
